

WARNINGS ISSUED TO PROTECT G. A. R.

Public Order Committee Issues
List of "Don'ts" for Visitors to City.

A code of "don'ts," including such pertinent suggestions as "Don't take a drink with a stranger," "Don't fail to have your address in your pocket," and other warnings along similar lines is to be one of the features of the public order committee in its efforts to protect the large crowds expected here for the G. A. R. encampment.

Announcement of the plans already formulated by Major Raymond W. Pullman, chairman of the committee, and his corps of police inspectors was made by the police chief at the first meeting of the committee at the New Willard last night. Nearly 200 of the 250 members of the committee attended the meeting and heard an explanation from Major Pullman of the method of organizing the public order and the work its members are expected to perform.

Every effort is to be put forward by both the police and the members of the committee to co-operate and make the occasion of the veterans' reunion an enjoyable one for the visitors, and to protect their persons and property. This will be the aim of the public order committee, an inspector said.

The chairman of the committee in explaining the intention of the police department to issue the code of "don'ts," said thousands of the circulars will be distributed.

In the opinion of Major Pullman, little trouble will be experienced in handling the parade crowds. The police chief explained that the necessary passage of persons will be greatly facilitated through the courtesy of the New York city police department, which has sent the local department scores of stationers for lining off temporary sidewalks. Streets on the line of march will be cleared of vehicular and pedestrian traffic an hour before the start of the parade and cars will be stopped a half-hour later.

POSTOFFICE FOR CAMP EMERY OPEN

Director General Standford Announces Building Will Be Ready Tomorrow.

Postmaster Merritt O. Chance and Director General Harry Standford completed final arrangements today for the installation of the branch postoffice station at Camp Matthew G. Emery for the benefit of the members of the G. A. R. Work was commenced on the station this afternoon and will be completed tomorrow morning, the postmaster believes.

The postal arrangements for the camp involve the installation of a complete postoffice establishment in the large room opposite the main entrance to the building. A corps of clerks will be detailed from the city postoffice for the work, and the station will be open for business as soon as it is completed. It is understood. The veterans will be able to dispatch registered and parcel post mail and obtain money orders. Mail addressed to veterans at Camp Emery will be delivered at the postoffice.

The decorative arrangement of furniture, lights and all the conveniences will be completed tomorrow evening. Director General Standford states. He expresses great satisfaction with the manner in which Assistant Director H. A. Johnston and the men working with the director general's forces have completed their tasks.

The cleaning out of the old Census building and its preparation for the reception of the equipment that makes it Camp Matthew G. Emery and the headquarters of the national encampment of the G. A. R. was a task of big proportions. The camp, however, will be ready for the G. A. R. long before the G. A. R. is ready for it.

The flag raising is not affecting the members of the Naval Veterans' organizations who have charge of the decoration of the "forenoon cabin," or "main deck," whatever they choose finally to name the great reunion hall. This morning a squad of bluejackets from the Dolphin reported to Chairman Porter for the decoration of this hall with signal flags and the ensigns of foreign nations visited by the navy. This room is entirely separate from the naval veterans' headquarters room. The "dog watch" or "main deck" is to be a Pan-American temple in its decorations. The flag of every one of the Central and South American countries is being hung in the scheme. The Stars and Stripes predominate, of course, and over the large platform has been placed the personal ensign of the Secretary of the Navy.

Quarantine Officers Warns of the Plague

Warning has been sent to every public health and quarantine officer of the United States, that every continent of the world is affected by plague, and that nearly every country of the world is infected. Instructions to guard against introduction of the dread malady into the United States and to use every precaution particularly at ports of entry in the examination of ships and individuals have been sent out by the Public Health Service.

The South American distribution of the disease is considered particularly important to the United States and to the Southern ports of entry.

Athletic Events to Live Children's Work Exhibits

An exhibit of industrial work of the children, and a series of athletic events will be held on the Garfield Playground tomorrow afternoon between 3:30 and 6:30 under direction of Miss Ethel MacWilliams and Miss Pearl Robertson. The program includes a baseball game, tennis matches, tether matches and relay races.

Medals will be presented to Paul Mills and Roy Fitzgerald, winners in the playground tennis tournament.

Excise Board Inspects Saloons of Applicants

The Excise board has begun inspection of saloons and wholesale establishments which have applied for licenses for the next license year, beginning November 1.

Not made of the condition and character of the establishment, as well as their proximity to schools, colleges, and places of religious worship. Hearings on the applications will be begun about October 1.
